Innovation, green tech power India-Nordic ties

SHUBHAJIT ROY
New Delhi, May 19

AS INDIA AND Nordic countries agreed to transform ties into a Green Technology Partnership, leaders of all six countries flagged concerns of global tensions and turbulence in the international order, and Prime Minister Narendra Modi said India and the Nordic nations will continue to stand together in upholding a "rules-based global order".

Prime Minister Narendra Modi with his Icelandic counterpart Kristrunn Frostadottir in Oslo on Tuesday. The two leaders held bilateral talks ahead of the third India-Nordic Summit. Modi has said, 'India deeply values the friendship with Iceland'

After attending the third India-Nordic summit in Oslo, Modi said, "We have decided to shape the India-Nordic relationship into a Strategic Partnership focused on green technology and innovation. Through this Green Technology Partnership, by combining Iceland's expertise in geothermal energy and fisheries, Norway's strengths in the Blue Economy and Arctic affairs, and the maritime and sustainability expertise of all Nordic nations with India's scale, we will ensure a better future for the entire world...through the establishment of this unique strategic partnership between us, by integrating Sweden's advanced manufacturing and defence capabilities, Finland's telecommunications and digital technologies, and Denmark's expertise in cybersecurity and health-tech with India's talent pool, we will develop trusted solutions for the global community." "A crucial pillar of the India-Nordic partnership", he said, "lies in our extensive ties in research and innovation. To further strengthen this foundation, we will work together to enhance linkages among universities, laboratories, and start-up ecosystems. We will deepen our cooperation in Arctic and polar research, and ensure new opportunities for skill development and talent mobility between India and the Nordic countries." "In this era of global tensions and conflicts, India and the Nordic nations will continue to stand together in upholding a rules-based global order. Whether in Ukraine or West

West Bengal restores 7% OBC quota for 66 communities

THE WEST BENGAL government on Tuesday discontinued religion-based categorisation schemes and regularised 66 communities that were included in the state's OBC reservation list prior to 2010, restoring their eligibility for a 7% quota. The move followed the state Cabinet's decision to scrap the existing state OBC list in compliance with a Calcutta High Court judgment in May 2024, which struck down the OBC status and certificates issued to 77 additional communities, primarily added between 2010 and 2012, declaring the inclusions illegal and unconstitutional. Ahead of the proposed Census exercise in the state, the development is likely to reshape caste calculations and have far-reaching socio-economic consequences, experts opined.
